Blaine Sets School Bond Vote Oct. 24

HAILEY — Blaine county residents will vote Oct. 24 on a school bond election to raise $300,000 for improvements in facilities, Vernon Exner, county superintendent, told Hailey Chamber of Commerce members meeting Monday at the Mint Cafe.

The bond proposal, if approved by voters, will be used, together with $100,000 which the school will receive for the present grade school at Keichum, to construct a new elementary school at Keichum and three additional rooms on the Wood River High School, including a music department.

Other improvements are planned throughout the county district, Mr. Exner said.

Plans call for installing of dining facilities for the Wood River High School and elementary students, for seating in the gymnasium, stage lighting and floor covering at the Carey school, change of lighting in the multipurpose room in the Hailey school and blacktop and site development in all communities.

Mr. Exner said the plan is to house the first four grades at Bellevue and grades 5 through 8 at the elementary school in Hailey.

Mrs. Roberta McKercher, secretary of the Yellowstone-Sun Valley Highway Association, said Wayne Clark, association president, urges all chamber members to attend a meeting at noon Oct. 5 at Dubois. Completion of the 13 miles of unfinished highway between Dubois and Mac's Inn will be urged.

Mr. Clark reported that the contract has been awarded to complete the approximately six miles of this highway west of Hill City.

Mrs. Charles Dunn, chairman of the Merchants' Committee for the Chamber, reported cement planters—36-by-36-by-36 inches may be obtained at a cost of $30 each. Her committee has suggested that three of these planters be placed on each of Hailey's business-section sidewalks, with spruce, pine or juniper to grow in them.

After discussion, in which it was brought out that Hailey's

Main street (which is U.S. Highway 83), is now 12 feet wide, but that three feet will be taken away for highway improvements next year, Mrs. Dunn was requested to check with the city council for a go-ahead on placing the planters and order them for next spring planting.

Orin Shirts, chairman of the Community Sign Board at the corner of Main and Croystreets, reported a ladder and saws on which to stand to change letters on the sign can be built for $150, and members voted to have this work done.

Sewage disposal into Big Wood river and other waterways in this vicinity was discussed. Leo Stavros reported that Sen. Frank Church, D., Idaho, had told him on his visit here last week, that it would be four or five years before Hailey would be considered for federal funds for a city sewage system.

Members were urged to attend the 41st All-Idaho Congress annual meeting Nov. 6 at the Town Tower at Boise.

Fairfield Man Heads Valley Democrats

JEROME — Joe McCarter, Fairfield, is the new regional president of the Democratic party, it was announced Tuesday.

Other officers elected at a meeting of Magic Valley Democrats at Jerome Friday include Vincent Smazal, Twin Falls vice president, and Mrs. Phillip Barre, Minidoka County, secretary-treasurer.

Purpose of the meeting was to organize South Central Idaho Democrats for the 1968 election. State Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, Gooding, was guest speaker.

About 25 Democrats attended from Twin Falls, Jerome, Cassia, Minidoka, Gooding, Lincoln, Blaine and Camas counties. Another meeting is planned in Twin Falls in six weeks.

Cambodian Takeover Seen As Possibility

WASHINGTON — Intelligence reports from several Far Eastern capitals are warning of the possibility of a Communist Chinese takeover of the Cambodian government of Prince Norodom Sihanouk to thwart what Peking has called Sihanouk's "attempts at a rapprochement with the Western imperialists."

A secret newsletter distributed to a select few Chinese officials in Peking and other major Chinese cities last week proclaimed Sihanouk "an enemy of the Mao revolution." The newsletter, Reference Information, went on to demand that Communist leaders in Cambodia "do their utmost" to gain "positions of political power in order to prevent the capture of Cambodia by the United States subversives."

At this juncture, Peking is particularly anxious by Sihanouk's efforts to settle his long-standing disputes with neighboring Thailand, which in Mao's book is an American colony. Reference Information also has denounced Sihanouk's crack-down on communist guerrillas and his recent statement that although the Vietnamese Reds were first of all patriots, the Cambodian variety were betraying their homeland.

"What can be thought of a man who tells his people that the (Communist) Chinese practice an imperialism stronger than that of the American?" Reference Information asks. "Cambodia can never be a true friend of China when its leader expresses such a viewpoint."

The newsletter also had bitter comment on Sihanouk's recent statement that he had fired cabinet ministers and his suspension of all privately operated newspapers. "It is a pity that the Chinese, Sihanouk has said, that only a few government-controlled publications are permitted to appear until a nationwide referendum to choose between himself and a pro-Chinese Sihanouk."

"This is a slap in the face to the Chinese people," said Reference Information. "Sihanouk is plotting to deliver his country into the hands of the Western imperialists by prohibiting the political activities of Chinese who are patriotic Cambodian citizens."

The two ministers dismissed by Sihanouk are Chao Ching, minister of state in charge of economics, and So Nem, minister of health and former chairman of the Cambodia-China Friendship Association. They were given the sack for having published a statement from Peking denouncing Sihanouk's dissolution of the Cambodia-China association on a charge it was undermining his regime.

Chao's newspaper, the Cambodia Dispatch, openly defied Sihanouk's order by arguing Cambodian members of the association "to continue your struggle," which is communist practice for continuing subversion. Thus, as in so many other cases of Maoist revolution in the domestic affairs of neighboring states, Peking left Sihanouk with no choice but to crack down on the pro-Peking bloc.

Later, Sihanouk announced he was reuniting his diplomats from Peking "to avoid incidents against our embassy." He added, "If China wants to continue being our friend, we are happy. But if China continues to insult the Cambodian people in its attitude, it will no longer be possible."

Remarkable Reference Information is that a takeover of Cambodia for a true believer in the Mao "Revolution" to be a triumph of support. Some experts insist that conditions are too chaotic in China to permit any foreign adventures such as a takeover of Cambodia. Others, however, believe that intervening in Cambodia is just the kind of foreign "struggle" the Mao forces are looking for to take their people's minds off their own problems.

That is to say, it would be a relatively easy matter and, more important, would not involve military intervention by the United States.

In any event, the long request of support from Cambodia seems to have come to an inglorious end. Diplomats here agree that there can be no real negotiation between the two countries until Mao's "revolution" runs its course or until Mao is deposed. And no one at the State Department is shedding any tears over this particular lovers' quarrel.

Gas Saves Lives

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A sharp worldwide clamor was heard two years ago when the United States first used tear gas in South Vietnam.

A public outcry echoed in the United States, even though American and other police forces were underlining its use on their own citizenry.

Now the gas is used routinely by U.S. forces in tunnel operations in South Vietnam. Its use is barely mentioned in the American or world press.

Egypt's Nassar even used Russian-supplied, man-killing nerve gas in Yemen with hardly more than a shrug of the shoulder.

When U.N. troops, stationed a decade on Egyptian land as a buffer between Israel and Egypt, were told to "dig" Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser they were withdrawn in a hurry by U.N. Secretary General U. Thant.

The brief war followed. When the 22nd session of the U.N. General Assembly opened Tuesday the reeling president, Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, didn't waste time on illusions.

He told the delegates the past year "has been marked by increased tensions among nations and by a lamentable deterioration in the world situation."

French President Charles de Gaulle called it the "Learning Tower of Babel." Nikita Khrushchev called it the tool of colonial powers. A critic in the United States described it as a "Communist-dominated rat's nest."

It can help, sometimes, another gas: fires in small nations. But it can do nothing if

All this shows it sometimes pays for a U.S. leader to take the bit in his teeth and ignore frenzied opposition when careful study of the situation shows his course to be right, humane, in this case.

Sometimes a loud outcry turns to be the voice of a very few people. But there is a sad note to this story.

VC tunnels frequently are so long and have so many curves and dead ends that gas isn't effective. For one thing, it does not persist long enough. Many VC escape.

Other nonlethal gases are available—gases, for example, that make people sick but do not care what's going on. Some of these might be more suitable for Vietnam tunnels.

Thus far, the men who make the decisions have been afraid to use these other gases for fear of a renewed worldwide outcry.

Trained Children

Prompt action by a well-trained school patrol and the Twin Falls Police Department has averted what well might have developed into one of the sordid tragedies that are all too common in some of the more populous sections of the country.

A man was arrested at Lincoln School and charged with indecent exposure. What this particular man's intentions were, or what the outcome would have been if no action had been taken, fortunately will never be known.

The gratifying thing about this incident is that the children in our schools have been instructed and trained so well that they recognize the dangers in such occurrences and know what to do when it happens.

Equally as important is the fact that our police force can respond without delay and make an arrest on the spot.

Around noon, when the grade school youngsters were being dismissed for lunch at Lincoln School, a school patrol girl noticed a man in a parked car beckoning to some of the girls. Through the open door of the car it could be seen that he was not fully clothed.

With no hesitation, one youngster went to a nearby home and had the woman of the house phone the police station. At the same time the matter was being reported to school authorities.

In a matter of minutes the police were on the scene and had the man in custody.

Such incidents are apt to occur at any time—in Twin Falls or anywhere else. Unfortunately there are more mentally disturbed persons than the authorities or anyone else are aware of.

Sometimes the incidents are nothing more than a disgusting nuisance, but sometimes they develop into the extremes that end in sensational, sordid tragedy. It is impossible to determine to what degree such an offense might go. The only course is to teach all children to react as these children at Lincoln School. Don't permit NASS activities here, but permit the police to act without delay to proper authorities.

Our school authorities are to be commended for the way they have trained the children.

Got A Suggestion?

Next to mothers-in-law, probably nothing has provided as much steady inspiration to cartoonists over the years as the company suggestion box.

But while the value of the first may be a legitimate subject of humor and debate, the contribution of the latter to the growth of American industry is a matter of record.

Last year, 588,000 workers submitted a total of 2,915,579 suggestions to their companies, reports the National Association of Suggestion Systems. These half-million employees represented 20 out of every 100 employees eligible for awards in the 140 plants and local units which are members of NASS.

They shared an incentive award pie of nearly $28.5 million. This averaged out to $42.50 apiece, a 16 per cent increase over the highest single award to an individual in 1966 was $24,020. Bright ideas brought another man $18,000 and three new cars.

Most awards are not that dramatic, of course. They usually involve small, simple changes to improve everyday operations.

The suggestion box goes back for decades in some companies, but it is until the early part of World War II that suggestion system administrators decided an organization was needed to unite people and firms experienced in handling suggestions in order to exchange ideas and develop better ways of encouraging employee initiative.

In December 1942, the first conference of the National Association of Suggestion Systems was held in Chicago, attended by 165 delegates. By 1959, NASS activities had spread into Canada and spread to England and Italy. The association issued statistical reports, distributed bulletins and manuals and provided guidance to its growing list of members.

Now observing its 25th year, NASS recently released a new movie, "What's the Big Idea?", for sale to members and interested companies. Filmed on location in industries and government installations across the country, it graphically portrays the operations and benefits of suggestions systems.

Today, most suggestion systems are open to all employees only, but many companies are widening them to include salaried personnel as well. Without doubt, the suggestion box has become a big part of business, as have more and more businesses—big and little—are beginning to realize.

United Nations Dream

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just a little over 22 years ago the United Nations was born in San Francisco. For a moment, with the anguish of the war ending, it seemed this might be the beginning of a new world.

Capitalists and Communists cheered and old animosities were almost invisible, for a while.

Anyone who was there had lived through the years of war, worse than anything in history, and he knew mankind, if sensible enough, could forge out of the fires of agony a peaceful way of life.

The machinery for quiet settlement of disputes, both new and ancient, was the foundation stone of this new United Nations, its primary purpose.

Even so, anyone there with his wits about him and a knowledge of history had to be skeptical. He could hope man at last had learned to live intelligently but history told him it was unlikely.

He knew man was still primitive, as World War II still justified, which meant that if now the nations seemed eager to eliminate conflict it was only because they were exhausted.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce pulled its membership last year and 65 per cent of those responding favored the change. But the six months of the year and three in the second six months.

That would represent rather ponderous swinging with the calendar. But it probably makes as much sense as moving Independence Day from July 4 to the first Monday in July.

With six three-day weekends the nation would be nearly 10 per cent along the road to a four-day week.—The Statesman of his head, until he is ready to go any further. Nevertheless, as the delegates at San Francisco finished their work, the whole non-Fascist world tingled a bit at the thought that here at last man had a chance to change his ways.

The fiasco didn't last long, and there wasn't much reason for it. At the very moment of birth distrust and suspicion were written into the U.N. charter when the United States and Soviet Union insisted upon re-creating the power to veto each other.

The United Nations had 51 members starting out and has 122 now. But it is in debt perhaps as much as $60 billion because not all the members will pay what they owe.

And it didn't end war, after all. In some cases it has helped, as in Korea. In some it has been helpless, as in Vietnam. It has been criticized on all sides.

French President Charles de Gaulle called it the "Learning Tower of Babel." Nikita Khrushchev called it the tool of colonial powers. A critic in the United States described it as a "Communist-dominated rat's nest."

It can help, sometimes, another gas: fires in small nations. But it can do nothing if the big ones, like the United States and the Soviet Union want to perform.

Nothing shows better its dilapidated condition as the world's peacekeeper than what happened to it, and what it did, when the Arabs were ready to make war on Israel last June.

When U.N. troops, stationed a decade on Egyptian land as a buffer between Israel and Egypt, were told to "dig" Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser they were withdrawn in a hurry by U.N. Secretary General U. Thant.

The brief war followed. When the 22nd session of the U.N. General Assembly opened Tuesday the reeling president, Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan, didn't waste time on illusions.

stop this, although he does not want it, however.

Q—What was the purpose of such a move—would be the most extreme liberal wing of the party—specifically, Nelson Rockefeller. His supporters are not the unstable force behind the move to put Reagan on the ballot in hopes that an early defeat could cut him down.

WAYNE BRANDSTADT, M.D.

The Menopause

Q—At what age does the menopause start? What would cause menopause in a woman of 25?

A—The age at which the menopause starts varies widely and is not related to the age on which a woman has had a certain number of pregnancies. It is usually started between the ages of 45 and 55.

Q—How does a doctor determine a person's estrogen level?

A—You recently wrote in a letter about your Pick's disease. My husband has this disease and your description is very accurate. Pick's disease is a degenerative disease of the brain. You are right that a description of Pick's disease, the heart ailment seen in children, is today's Pick's disease or progressive atrophy or wasting of a portion of the brain.

This is a perfect example of the disavowances of naming diseases after the man who first described them instead of giving them a descriptive name. Incidentally, there is a third Pick's disease (erythromelalgia) which is characterized by painless reddened areas of the skin. And then there is Niemann-Pick disease in infants, more properly called lipid storage disease. All four Picks are unrelated. Confusing, don't you think?

LET U.N. BE TESTED

In committing itself to a renewal of efforts to get the United Nations to take some action at least, on the Vietnam war issue, the Administration is responding to pressures, like those generated in Congress by Senate Majority Leader Mansfield, and the House of Representatives.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk Friday expressed no confidence that the United Nations would be able to do anything to end the Vietnam war. Instead of working for U.N. action in the only direction it would be effective—bringing more pressure to bear on the Communist nations including North Vietnam to approach the bargaining table—U. Thant has spent his time advancing his own peace plan, but it is until the early part of World War II that suggestion system admin-

BENEFITS IN MORE LONG WEEKENDS

Legislation before Congress would give the nation five more three-day holiday weekends. There are a number of obvious benefits.

Presently Labor Day is the only holiday always falling on Monday, providing a guaranteed three-day weekend. The legislation would specify that Washington's birthday, Memorial Day, Independence Day, Veterans Day and Thanksgiving Day would all be observed on Mondays.

People would have more time for holiday travel, and like it or not, politicians would have more opportunities to get home. There would be less disruption of schools and business because midweek holidays would be avoided.

There is a drawback. More three-day holiday weekends will probably also mean more deaths on the highways.

Period Of Wishful Thinking

From now until the national nominating conventions we are in a period of wishful thinking. These are the days when pundits and politicians see their particular choices fading or growing brighter on the basis of signs and omens that would tax the ingenuity and eyesight of a native medicine man.

In most cases, as proponents and opponents scout the skies for revelations as to why their candidate will win, they are not yet so manipulated in this country that the pool of voters can be switched on or off by press agency or political damage.

One fact they ignore is that people, not politicians, make issues. We are not yet so manipulated in this country that the pool of voters can be switched on or off by press agency or political damage.

The American people simply cannot be led or fed by these mouthed, idle echoes on these matters. They are looking

LOW BIDDERS

BOISE (AP) — Emery S. Conner, Nampa, was named the apparent low bidder Monday for construction of a weights and measures building in Boise. His bid of $119,790 was lowest of eight submitted.

An Idaho Falls firm, Almen Construction Co., was low bidder of three for construction of an addition to the fish and game hatchery near Ashton. The bid was $74,243.

POWER OUT

BOISE (AP) — An explosion and fire in a power substation temporarily knocked out power to half of Boise, Monday — in some parts for more than two hours.

Power company officials did not know the immediate cause of the explosion and resulting fire which burned out a 1500-volt feeder switch in the Idaho Power Company's Boise substation.

The outage occurred at 6:46 p.m. The last of the customers were back on by 9:30, officials said.

BODY FOUND

MIDDLETON (AP) — The body of a man, missing for about 10 months, was found Monday in an irrigation ditch not far from his home. Officers said William Hinesley McCrory, 76, may have fallen into the stream while walking.

ASSESSOR SPEAKS

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Eugene Taylor, president of the Idaho County Assessors' Association said here Monday Idaho needs an equitable tax structure where exemptions are not made on a discriminatory basis.

Speaking to 15 delegates representing all of the state's 44 counties at the assessor's convention, Taylor said, "Idaho needs an overall structure that is based on honest values, not one in which different classes are exempted because of discriminatory factors."

Taylor said there should be no place for preferential treatment in taxing and that taxation should be based on dollar per dollar value.

Nurse Training Set For Burley

SEATTLE, Wash. — Job training of 14 unemployed and underemployed persons in Idaho is provided in two newly-approved U. S. Department of Labor institutional projects under the Manpower Development and Training Act.

In making the announcement here, Clinton A. Johnson, Northwest Regional Administrator of the Labor Department's Bureau of Employment Security, said both projects will involve training for licensed practical nursing.

At Burley, eight will be trained in Cassia Memorial Hospital over a period of 49 weeks in a project costing $21,848, with a federal share of $20,748; and at Sandpoint, six will be trained for 51 weeks in Bonner General Hospital in a project that will cost $23,276, with a federal share of $22,976.

TWO DAYS OFF

BOISE (AP) — Students will have two days off while teachers attend instructional conferences scheduled Oct. 13-15 in three Idaho locations.

A statewide and two regional conferences are planned by the Idaho Department of Education and the Idaho Education Association.

The statewide conference will be in Boise and the two regional conferences in Coeur d'Alene and Pocatello.

HEARING HELD

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Longer seasons for and better access to Yellowstone and Grand Teton National Parks were requested during hearings Monday in Idaho Falls.

At the hearing conducted by the National Park Service, conservationists and commercial interests clashed over whether the parks should be developed further or left in as natural a state as possible.

CRASHES KILL 2

By The Associated Press

TWO persons have died from injuries sustained in traffic accidents, raising Idaho's highway traffic death toll for 1967 to 189. One man died in a Salt Lake City hospital from injuries received in a Labor Day automobile crash near Ririe, Idaho. He was 46-year-old, 26, Ririe.

A Cobalt, Idaho, miner died shortly after his automobile crashed down an 80-foot embankment near Salmon, Idaho, Monday afternoon.

He was James Henry Sterner, 39. State police said the car went off a switchback on Williams Creek Road, 12 miles southwest of Salmon.

ADMINISTRATOR NAMED

Idaho's new Western Idaho fruit rancher, Willard Smith, has been appointed to administer the Idaho operations of the Office of Economic Opportunity's Project Headstart.

Herbert Whitworth, Idaho's OEO coordinator, said Smith will replace Walt Thomas, Boise. Smith is a former employee of the Idaho Department of Agriculture.

MEETINGS SET

BOISE (AP) — Meetings to discuss provisions of the Federal Highway Safety Act of 1966 are scheduled this week in five Idaho locations, the head of the Governor's Commission on Traffic Safety said Monday.

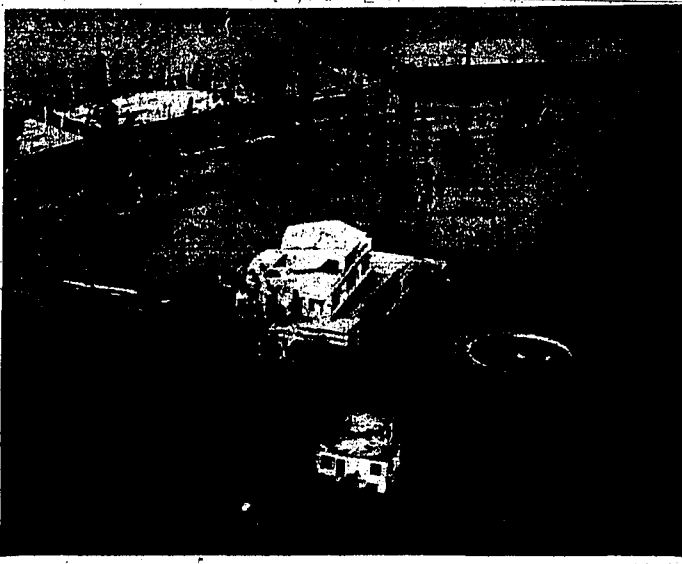

David J. Dehlin, Boise, said representatives of the commission will confer with representatives of 11 Idaho counties and cities during the round of meetings.

Purpose of the trip is to review requirements for highway safety under the federal act, Dehlin said.

The meetings will be Tuesday through Friday in Twin Falls, Pocatello, Idaho Falls, Moscow and Coeur d'Alene.

ABC Secretary Gets Chance To Be Newscaster In Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Melba Tolliver, a secretary in the ABC Broadcasting Co. television and radio networks last Friday in a contract dispute.

Miss Tolliver, a native of Akron, Ohio, did some television commercials before she started working for ABC last October.

And she filled-in-for-Miss Sanders for nine days during the AFTRA strike last April.

The pinch-hitter, who also is a registered nurse, had some top brass in the control room with her Monday.

Harry R. Olsson, ABC's general attorney, and Benjamin Oulskil, a time salesman, manned the two cameras. More than a dozen ABC executives were in the control room.

A spokesman for the ABC said the network said that supervisory personnel continued to fill in at the control panels and on the air.

a Ponderosa pine log reaching the top of the tow cable. From here the logs go to a decking area, last photo, where the logs are cut into 32-foot lengths. The logs then are loaded onto trucks for a trip to the Sawtooth Lumber Co. mill at Mountain Home. The system is relatively fast, but a drawback is the amount of time it takes to assemble the system when it is moved from one skidding area to another. An advantage, however, is that fewer unsightly access roads are needed and there is less soil disturbance because skidding is reduced as logs are hoisted partially off the ground on their trip to the top of the hill. This is the first time this method of logging has been used on the Sawtooth National Forest.

New Logging Technique On Sawtooth Cuts Down On Need For Access Roads

For the first time in the history of logging on the Sawtooth National Forest, a "high lead" cable system has been set up and operated on the Shake Creek Ranger District.

Sawtooth-Lumber-Co.-is-owner of the high lead system, and purchaser of the Pinto Creek timber sale where the system is performing. The high lead has been introduced to work the long, steep slopes over 45 per cent.

With this system, fewer access roads are needed and soil disturbance due to skidding is reduced because the logs are partially hoisted off the ground.

The principal parts of the machine are a caterpillar rigged with cable drums and a mobile-spar also attached to the caterpillar. The cable is run down-hill from the boom for about 600 feet and attached to a husky stump. This constitutes a tow cable, rather like one seen on a ski lift, which will skid the logs to the top of the hill adjacent to the mobile-spar.

A tender leads the logs onto

Wendell To Elect Two Aides Nov. 7

WENDELL — The Wendell municipal election will be held Nov. 7 to elect two councilmen, each for a term of four years.

The laws governing the city elections were changed at the last state legislature. The major change is that all candidates may run at large, and will be elected to serve the city instead of any particular precinct. This will make it possible for both candidates to be elected from the same precinct.

Unusual Check CINCINNATI (AP)—There were quite a few raised eyebrows at the Fifth Third Union Trust Co. when David G. Swenson paid the final $387 installment on a business loan.

Swenson paid with a check Monday—but one that was written on a dead, freshly plucked chicken instead of paper.

Garnett Hill, vice president of the bank, said the check was accepted. Swenson said he started a drive-in restaurant specializing in fried chicken with a loan from Fifth Third and wanted to make his final payment memorable.

Home Tours Said Success; $750 Raised

"It was a great success and things couldn't have gone better," said Mrs. Harold Mink, a member of the Junior Club, as she commented Tuesday on the unit's tour of homes last Sunday in Twin Falls.

Approximately 250 residents toured the five homes, with the entire membership of the Junior Club on hand at the various homes to conduct the tour and explain the outstanding features.

Homes toured include those of Dr. and Mrs. V. V. Telford, Mr. and Mrs. Willy Dodds, Dr. and Mrs. Harry F. Brumback Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Max R. Black and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lincoln.

This was the first such tour of homes ever conducted in Twin Falls. With the success, members of the Junior Club plan to make it an annual event, it was reported.

Former Shoshone Resident Dies

SHOSHONE — Mr. and Mrs. Ferrell Clark received word of the death of Verne Millspaugh, 81, of Phoenix, Ariz. She is the former Gladys Grier and lived in Shoshone until 1926 when they moved to Arizona.

She is survived by her husband, two sons and two daughters. Mrs. Millspaugh was the younger sister of Mr. Clark's first wife, Ethel.

Three of the Millspaugh children, Frank, Dorothy and Russell were born in Shoshone. The other child, Beverly, was born in Phoenix.

Shake Creek Ranger District is located on the extreme west boundary of the Sawtooth National Forest and, of the eight districts which make up the forest, Shake Creek is the only one to produce merchantable stands of Ponderosa pine.

An overmature stand of Ponderosa pine is located in the Pinto Creek area just north of Featherville. In 1966 Sawtooth Lumber Co. began logging a National Forest timber sale estimated at 11 million board feet. The trees average 30 inches in diameter at breast height and are 100 feet tall.

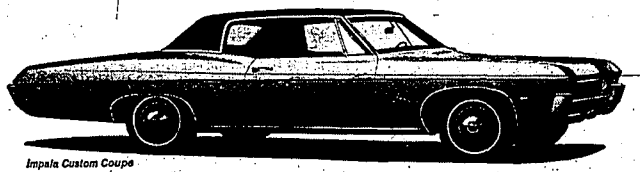

The sale should be completed this fall; at that time the logging debris will be disposed off by burning. This operation will prepare the logged-over areas for planting of seedlings next spring.

The high lead system of skidding logs now makes it practical to log steep slopes on the Sawtooth National Forest in keeping with the multiple use management objectives of the forest.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I work in an office which employs mostly men. One of the men here is a great talker, and his favorite subject is SEX. He doesn't ask, "How are you?" He asks, "How's your love life?" It's forever stopping by my desk to tell me an off-color story. No matter what is said, he turns it into something personal and downright embarrassing. (If I say, "Good morning," he asks, "And what pray tell, happened last night to make this morning so good?") He can't possibly believe that I am not interested in discussing my private life with him because I have given him no encouragement whatsoever. What should I do?

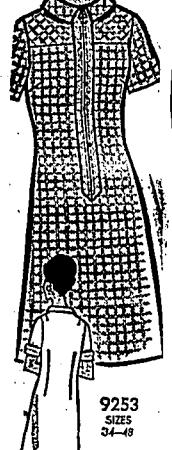

HELEN: Tell the man that you find his off-color stories embarrassing and his personal references intrusive. If he does not get the message, tell your superior. If he is your superior, there are other jobs.

DEAR ABBY: Being in the real estate business, I read with interest the letter from the real estate salesman "who objected to the 'lockers' who were in no position to buy a house, but wanted him to spend his time showing what was available anyway."

You should have told that salesman to ask those lockers exactly how much money they HAD to buy a house. It would save a lot of time, tires and gas.

OUTGROWN LAST FALL'S SUIT?

If you want to look good, the only thing to do is buy a new one, or have a tailor make it to fit. If you've outgrown your old prescription, however, you can't alter it. In fact you might not even be aware that it no longer fits. You want to feel good, and get the most out of your prescription drug, check with your doctor before taking an old prescription or before renewing one. Be on the safe side, don't take risks with your health. Don't dispense or prescribe for yourself. Don't risk other people's prescriptions. And don't let your doctor become "groggled."

DEAR ALSO: Sorry, but I wouldn't recommend that approach. Some lookers might find it insulting, and I wouldn't blame them. A good salesman will have learned how to size up a prospect by asking pertinent questions and drawing his own conclusions. Ask any successful old man how many dry holes he drilled before he struck oil.

DEAR ABBY: I have a married daughter and a married son. Once they left home I began serious work on a creative program in which I had been interested for years.

My daughter and her husband fell into the habit of dropping in with their children any time they were in town, invading my workroom and disturbing my work. After repeated interruptions, I asked them to please telephone before coming over, but they continued to drop in whenever they were in town.

They were angry with me and asked to please come over by invitation only. The result: They were not on good terms.

Now my son and his wife are doing the same thing. I do not want to invite them in, but they do it. I feel I should be imposed upon. How do you tell mature children that you are no longer holding open house? I might add, both these young couples and not once have I ever visited them without calling first to see if it was convenient. What is the answer?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: I happen to believe that mature and well-behaved people respect the wishes of others, whether they are related or not. It is easy to understand why children continue to regard their parents' home as their own because that's the way it was for so long. But once they are adults, they should remember. It is unfortunate that your daughter and her husband became angry because you demanded the courtesy of a call before they dropped in. Unless you prefer the inconvenience of being interrupted in your "project" to being estranged with your son and daughter, give them the same treatment.

Linda Kerbs, Darrell Olsen Marry In LDS Temple Rites

Linda Kerbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Kerbs, Twin Falls, and Darrell Olsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daris Olsen, Murtaugh, were united in marriage Aug. 18 in rites at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple. President Shelley Bartlett, Jill Kerbs and Charlotte Kerbs, nephew and niece of the bride.

Max Bartlett was master of ceremonies for the reception program. The invocation was given by Darrell Ward and benediction by Viri Brown.

The couple took a wedding trip to Sun Valley. The couple resides in Twin Falls where both are employed.

Guests attended from Burley, Rupert, Paul, Gooding, Idaho Falls, Kimberly, Murtaugh, and Clearfield and Salt Lake City, Utah.

Pre-nuptial showers honoring the bride were given at the home of Elva Bartlett by Leah Newman, Audrey Caudill, Lucille Chatterton and Ellen Newman. A personal shower was given by Lesley Crane, Janice Brown and Karen Smith.

The bride wore a white satin wedding gown, enhanced with bouffant floor-length skirt, and a large train down the back. The bodice of lace over satin featured an empire waistline, scalloped neckline and ruffled sleeves. A lace panel inset in the front of the skirt added interest. Her fingertip veil of nylon illusion net fell from a brail satin peal studded with seed pearls.

She carried a crescent bouquet of pink and white roses and white carnations tied with blue satin streamers. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Max Bartlett, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Marilyn Olsen and Peggy Olsen, sisters of the bridegroom.

The arch was flanked by blue and white streamers. The bride and groom were seated at the head of the table. The bride's table was covered with a nylon flounce and topped with a handmade crocheted lace tablecloth over blue. The four-tiered wedding cake was iced in white and decorated with tiny blue flowers and white swans. A miniature bride-and-bridegroom adorned the top of the cake. Blue net and white streamers rounded the base of the cake.

Guests were served at quartet tables covered with white linen cloths centered with arrangements of blue feather flowers accented by white satin bows. Sherman Day, band leader, and decorated the cake. She also cut and served the cake, assisted by Mrs. Nephil Olsen, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Rita Brady and Mrs. Jane Toupin, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the punch table. Mrs. Beulah Newman, Mrs. May Yarbrough and Mrs. Vera Vay, guests were registered by will present the program.

Miss Crowther, Butler Wed In Temple Rites

RICHFIELD - Karen Edith Crowther, Salt Lake City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mack Crowther, and W. Don Butler, Provo, son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Butler, Jerome, were united in marriage Aug. 28 at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple. President Alden Peterson solemnized the double ring ties.

They were accompanied to the temple by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Williams, Provo; Mr. and Mrs. Dean Allen, Lancaster, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. William Bachman, Portland, Ore.; and Mrs. Dale Rasmussen, Seattle; Ruth Butler and Eugene Butler, Provo; Osmund Crowther, Fountain, Green, Utah; Mrs. Leona Pope, Provo; Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Weekes, Superior, Wis.; Mrs. Marion Weekes, Idaho Falls; Bishop C. Jay Ward and Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jaynes, Richfield, and Mr. and Mrs. John Butler, Jerome.

Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Weekes, cousin of the bride, were hosts at a luncheon after the ceremony for the wedding party at their home in Idaho Falls.

The reception was held in the evening for the couple at the Richfield LDS Church. Baskets of yellow and white flowers were at each end of the receiving line where the members of the wedding party greeted guests.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of white sheer nylon over a white and yellow and white gown, designed by the bride and made by her mother. The fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline and applied lace roses outlined with tiny seed pearls, and long ivory point sleeves. A front scalloped-edged panel of lace roses accented the A-line skirt.

A floor-length train fastened at the shoulders to complete the gown. Lace panels, edged lace roses, formed the flower which held her veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses tied with narrow white ribbon.

Master of honor was Mrs. Marilyn Williams, Provo, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Carmen DeLong and Myra Taylor of Lake City, roommates of the bride.

Best man was Dean Allen, Lancaster, Calif., brother-in-law of the bride. Ula's Beauty Shop, Burley, registered the guests. The bride's table was covered with white and blue cloth. The bride and groom were seated at the head of the table. The bride's table was covered with a nylon flounce and topped with a handmade crocheted lace tablecloth over blue. Episcopalians Face Possible Pike Trial

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — The Episcopal Church today faced once again the prospect of a heresy trial of Bishop James A. Pike after strenuous efforts to avoid it collapsed in confusion.

However, behind-the-scenes huddles were going on to seek a way out of the tangle—termed by some a crisis for the church. It exploded late Monday after the House of Bishops acted to affirm generally—rather than specifically adopt—a document upholding freedom of doctrinal inquiry and repudiating heresy trials.

It was aimed, in part, at settling the Bishop Pike case.

However, the lack of formal enactment or implementing legislation aroused questions—what Bishop Stuart Wetmore of New York called “considerable confusion”—climaxed when Bishop Pike reinvoiced his demand for trial of charges made against him.

He had offered to drop the case if the report's recommendations were formally ratified but said the modified action taken “did nothing to remedy anything.”

Thousands of clergy, inside and outside this church, are waiting to have this Damocles sword taken off the head of theological honesty,” he said, adding that he had become a symbol for their interests, and wanted a clear decision. The trouble flared as the 11-day governing convention for 3.5 million Episcopalians neared its close Wednesday.

Bishop Stephen Bayne, one of the church's most influential voices and chairman of the commission that drafted the report, said he was “stunned, disappointed and sorry” that the handling of it had not resolved the problem.

Uncertainty about the matter came to a head when Bishop Wetmore asked if “we are to understand that the action taken erases the impact of the statement” by bishops last fall censuring Bishop Pike's views as offensive and irresponsible. Presiding Bishop Hines replied that the action “does not erase the censure. This could be done only if the House of Bishops chose to do so.”

Citing this exchange, Bishop Pike said it “removes all puzzlement,” showing that the bishops' action had not cleared him, and therefore he “had no choice” but to insist that procedures for a trial be started at once.

In their resolution, the bishops said they “welcome and generally share” the report's conclusions, and expressed hope it will “create a new climate of responsible thought and action within the church.”

They also directed that a committee draft “appropriate canonical amendments”—in line with the report for future consideration—but, made clear, no immediate legislation was contemplated at the current convention.

Bishop Bayne said afterward he felt these steps, in effect, ratified the report. However, Bishop Leland Stark of Newark, N.J., voiced disappointment at the absence of any implementing measures—and indicated he will press for them.

Heresy charges against him were launched last year by a group led by Bishop Henry J. Louit of South Florida, who had agreed to drop the case after the censure—revoke—but Bishop Pike then demanded a trial so he could offer his defense, his right once the charges had been aired.

However, he had shelved this demand, contingent on approval of the theological freedom report, which—without naming him—repudiates the procedures used against him.

But the outcome has revived his demand. Bishop Pike originally came under fire for questioning some traditional doctrines, such as the biological virginity of Mary, mother of Jesus, and the Trinity—that God is three persons: Father, Son and Holy Spirit, of one nature.

Any household appliance—like a washer, refrigerator or air conditioner—can go on the blink sometime. Usually when you need it most! Then you want someone to fix it in a hurry.

Where can you turn for help?

If it's a Whirlpool appliance, your search is ended. You just call the number listed above. Free of charge. At any time of the day or night. From anywhere in the continental United States.

When you call, our operators will give you the name and number of the Whirlpool Tech-Care Center nearest your home. Which means that your appliance will be repaired by men trained and authorized by Whirlpool, rather than by your neighborhood jack-of-all-trades fix-it man.

So if you own a Whirlpool appliance, we suggest you cut out our number and paste it somewhere on the machine. And if you don't own a Whirlpool, we suggest you save it anyway, because someday you might.

Whirlpool is the first major appliance manufacturer in the country to provide a service like this. Although, since our machines need so few repairs, we should have been the last.

AS LONG AS YOU LIVE IN OUR AREA, WE'RE THE PEOPLE TO CALL — BUT ISN'T IT COMFORTING TO KNOW THAT ANYWHERE YOU MAY MOVE WHIRLPOOL SERVICE IS AS CLOSE AS YOUR PHONE.

Negro Policeman Cleared By Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — A Negro police detective, whose fatal shooting of a 14-year-old Negro boy touched off antipolice disorders in a Brooklyn neighborhood for three nights, has been cleared by a grand jury.

The Brooklyn grand jury voted Monday not to indict Detective John Rattley, who said he and other officers saw the boy, Richard Ross, helping other boys to mug a 20-year-old white man, Samuel S. Samuels, on Sept. 4.

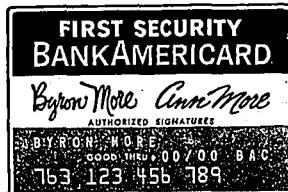

Rattley, the 26th and final witness before the grand jury, said the boy was running away when shot on a street on the fringe of the predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section.
